So far as French's Conical Washing Machine trust. So far as French's Conical Washing Machine is concerned, we know that this is a very unwise policy, and positively wrong and injurious, both to the young women and their carployers. This machine will lighten the labor, save the hands and relieve many of the wearing and designeeable features of hand washing, but is not designed to, and will not take the place of a single young woman at service, we feel confident. If young women would improve their condition, they would do well to svall themselves of all such aids for performing household work. We have tried this washer, and it is already used in several of an institutions in charge of the Sisters, where it is highly spoken of."

CENTRAL COMMITTEE OF THE NATIONAL UNION CLUBS.

ADDRESS OF GOV. HUNT.

A large audience collected last evening at the National Union Club Rooms, No. 654 Broadway, to liston to the Hop. WASHINGTON HUNT'S defense of the Union Electoral Ticket. Mr. Hunt made the subjoined statement with reference to the juggle by which either the Douglas men are to be made to vote for Bell electors, or else the Bell men are sold to the Douglas party: or else the Bell men are sold to the Douglas party:

His own opinions harmonized with the sentiments of the true friends of Bell and Everett everywhere. He had considered it due to himself, in view of his relations to the action of the National Convention, to inform both of those eminent and patriotic men, in advance, that he would adopt no course which they should not declare to be consistent with his personal honor, his obligations to them, to the cause, and, above all, to the country, which is dearer to them than any personal qualification whatsoever. He was very confident that he had done nothing and proposed nothing which would incur the disapproval of our patriotic candidates for President and Vice-President of the United States. The Union party decided, under a just sense of their responsibility to God and their country, that it is the duty of all national men to unite; and that all who desire to promote that more "perfect union" designed by the Federal Constitution, ought in this crisis to come together and join hands in one manly, generous effort for the rescue of the State and the safe deliverance of the country from impanding daugers. The same sentiment animated the mass of the Domocratic party in this State who gave their support to Mr. Douglas for the Presidency. The result is known. It is seen in the formation of an Union Electoral ticket, bearing the names of 25 supporters of Mr. Douglas and ten supporters of Mr. Bell. He had observed that constant and disingenuous attempts had been made by the Republican press to mislead the public mind in regard to the 'true character of this ticket. Perhaps it is enough to say that the ten Bell Electors were selected by a Committee of 32 of the most learned and reliable men in the community, representing the Union party, and accepted by the State Convention of the supporters of Mr. Douglas, with no other stipulation or condition than that the friends of both shall make united and efficient efficts for the election of the edure His own opinions barmonized with the sentiments of and accepted by the State Convention of the supporters of Mr. Douglas, with no other stipulation or condition than that the friends of both shall make united and efficient effects for the election of the eatire tickst. The ten names were chosen and sceepted with a full knowledge that they are extrest supporters of Bell and Everett, and that three of them were decrease in the National Convention, which notices of Bell and Everett, and that three of them were delegates in the National Convention which nominated those candidates. He felt morally certain that, if elected, they would cost their votes for Bell and Everett. He could conserve no state of things, within the range of human probability, which could lead them to a different result. That cases may arise in the course of our history where the Electoral Colleges may be required by high only to exercise a wise and patriodic discretion, is by no means impossible. That so the was discretion, is by no means impossible. That such was the original theory and design of the Federal Constitu-

the original theory and design of the Federal Constitution, may be seen by referring to the contemporaneous expection in The Federalist of the true meaning of the Constitution by its most distinguished architec's.

It is easy to conceive that when there is a great diverrity of candidates, and no concentration of popular orinion upon any eminent of izon, the Electoral Colleges may be compelled to exercise the discretion devolved by the Constitution upon the electoral office, or else transfer the election to the House of Representatives. He was firmly conviced that if there should be such exercise of discreationary power in the pending Presidential election, it must conver to the benefit of Hell and Evereit. In the first place, ha deemed it safe to assume that they will receive the electoral vote of a large majority of the Southern States.
It is by no means impossible that the entire College of New-York will have the power to give an united vote to that effect. But he supported the ticket in the belief that its encoses will result in 25 votes for Mr.
Doughas and 10 votes for Mr. Bell. If the vote of New-York is against Lincoln and Hamlin it matters New York is against Lincoln and Hamlin it matters not for whom it is given, so for as they are concerned. It insures their defeat. If the elaction is carried to the House of Representatives, he had never doubted the election of Mr. Bell by that body. Mr. Runt then went on with a considerable portion of that same old speech of his, which we have already published several times, and which it is not necessary to repeat again.

MEETING OF PROPERTY HOLDERS IN FIFTY-SECOND STREET.

An adjourned meeting of property holders in Fifty-second street, west of Ninth avenue, was held last evening, at the Hudson Shades, ir. Fifty-second street, near Twelfth avenue. They claim that the contractors who have been paving Fifty-second street, have done their work in a most s-ameral and fraudulent manner, violating in every particular the specifications of their contract. At a previous meeting a committee was apcinted to wait upon the Croton Board, and protes igainst their accepting the work.
The Committee reported that they had an interview with Mr. Tappan, a member of that Board, and that he, after due deliberation, assured them that a new In-spector should be appointed to oversee that work. He urther assured th that the work would not be accepted unless performed in direct accordance with the specifications of the contract. From remarks made by the property holders present, it appears that the con tractor, instead of prepaying a foundation for the street, simply plowed the ground, and laid the cobble cones on top. The paving stones are not of the re-quired size, a portion of them being nothing more than the commonest sandstone, which would readily break on being dropped from the hand. Of the pave-ment already laid, a portion has disappeared from sight in the mud below. The following resolution was upanimously adopted: unanimously adopted:

Wherear, A contract to pave Fifty-second street, between Ninth avenue and the Hudson River, was given out by the Croton Board to Mr. Alexander Beard, the said work to be done accordwithfully violated in sections 1, 2, 4, 7 and 8 by the Street Inspector; therefore,

Resulted, That we, the owners of property affected by the above matter, for the ourpose of arresting as far as we are able the corrupt practices in the matter of street paving, and in our own case in particular, hereby mutually agree to employ comest to defined our rights; and to fully carry out such object we also spece to pay into a common fund a provinta share of $5 per anome on each lot owned by us, such sum to be used as our commel may direct, such sum to be paid to such representative as may be seen direct by the officers appoint of at this meeting only, and properly indersed by the officers appoint of at this meeting.

It was stated that the petition sent in to the Board asking that this street should be paved, was not made by the others appoint at this inecting.

It was stated that the petition sent in to the Board asking that this street should be paved, was not made by the pre perty holders along the atreet, but was got up by the contractor, who had a lot of second-hand paving-stones that he desired to get rid of. If the property holders had been consulted upon the matter they would have insisted upon a Belgian pavement. The fand to be raised by the ascessment of $5 on each lot will amount to $1,000 and those present last evening expressed a determination to give still more to check the swindle that is being put upon them by the contractor and the municipal authorities.

The Poughkeepie News says:

"In the death of Mr. Wilson, whose brief oblinary may be found in another column, we have lost one of our most valuable chizens. He had become, too, one of the oldest of our business men, having opened a book store in the premises now under our citorial rooms in Market street in the year 1834, where he remained a few years alone, and then formed a copartnership with the late veteran publisher and buokseller, Paraciete Potter. When Mr. Potter lett for the West, Mr. Wilson continued the business alone, and has done so until within a few montas, when deciling health caused him to resign the active supervision of it into the hands of his elects son. Mr. Wilson was a native of Pertheid, Scotland, and his thoughts and feelings were thoroughly indued with the most noble associations of his native land, especially those which pertained to its literature of every kind. He had already assumed an honorable position in the world of letters before he left Scotland, and was an acceptable centributer to Elackwood's Magnatine, The Etichurgh Literary Journal, Chamber's Journal and other periodicals, After establishing himself in business here, he continued his contributions to Scottish poetry, published some 29 years arg, several from the peu of Mr. Wilson appeared which are remarkable for their great delicacy of sentiment, vigorous thought and artistic constructions of "Allen Grant," Mr. Wilson has contributed some mentiorlans peems to the columns of The Albion, The Exening Pest, The Katckerbocker Magnatine, and more recently to The Chicago Record, published by his son."
